IT WAS GOOD WHISKY.

But Blackburn and Carlisle Proved They Were Judges of Flavor.

Joe C. S. Blackburn and John G. Carlisle were some years ago visiting a common friend at his summer residence. The host had some old Kentucky whisky of which he was very proud, and this was, in his estimation, the richest treat he could offer the Kentuckians. It lay in his cellars in the original package, and as the Kentuckians had about finished the pint which had just been drawn off he took occasion to say that the whisky was 19 years old.

"No," said Mr. Carlisle; "that's very good whisky, but it's only 17 years old."

Mr. Blackburn said, "That's right, John, and it came from Bourbon county, in my old district."

The host agreed that it was Bourbon county whisky, but maintained that it was 19 years old and asked his visitors for a candid opinion of its merits. Blackburn tried another glass and said, "I have only one fault to find, and that is a slight flavor of rusty metal." Carlisle filled again and said that, so far as he was concerned, he was unable to detect any flavor of metal, but that it did taste a little leathery.

This criticism rather wrought on the feelings of their host, who declared that it was impossible that either leather or metal could have come in contact with the goods, as they were still in the wood, and, as for the age, he would take them into the cellar, where they could satisfy themselves on that score. Into the cellar they went, and the seals showed that Mr. Carlisle's estimate of their age was correct. This the host confessed after an examination, but he refused to admit that there was any off flavor to his pet brand. The Kentuckians tasted again and were more firmly set in their opinions than before. Finally the host undertook to have the entire package decanted off to settle the dispute, and when the last drops were reached an old fashioned carpet sack, with a leather washer, was found in the bottom of the barrel. That of course ended the discussion, and the host has never since disputed the word of a Kentuckian when he was talking about whisky.—Cincinnati Tribune.

THE END OF MANKIND.

Scientists Who Believe That the Human Race Will Shrink.

There is a whole school of European scientists who believe that this world will "come to an end," as far as mankind is concerned, at about the year 4000 A. D., by the human race degenerating until they finally disappear from the face of the globe. French, English and German statisticians of this school have been studying the military and other record for proof of their unique theories, and if their published account is as reliable they have been surprisingly successful.

The records used by both the German and the Frenchman extend back nearly 400 years. From these it is learned that the average height of continental Europeans in 1610 was 5 feet 6 inches. In 1700 they had degenerated until the average was only 5 feet 6 inches and 30 years later, in 1820, it was only 5 feet 5 inches. At the present time it is only 5 feet 3 3/4 inches. It is an easy matter for expert statisticians to deduce from the above figures facts that will prove a regular and very rapid decline in human stature. Figuring in an opposite direction, it is shown that the men of 5,000 years ago were giants, whose average height was 16 feet and 9 inches. Coming down to our era it is shown that the average height of man was 9 feet, and that in the fifth century there were more men that were over 7 feet high than were less than 6.

But the most astonishing results of this scientific story of degeneration come from the application of this law of gradual diminution to the future. It is shown that by the end of the year 8500 A. D. the stature of the average man will be reduced to 15 inches, and that within less than 500 years from that date, say, about the year 4000, mankind will have utterly disappeared from the globe.—St. Louis Republic.

Amusing Blunder of Empress Eugenie.

An amusing incident occurred while the pages were rehearsing the part they had to play in certain festivities. They were chosen from among the diminutive grooms in the emperor's stables, and when the costume was ready a pretty boy, who seemed about 12 years of age, was brought to the empress for her examination and approval. The dress pleased her, and she turned the boy around to inspect him fully, setting his velvet cap jauntily on his curls, which she arranged to her satisfaction, adjusting his ruff, etc.; then, kindly patting his cheek, she inquired:

"How old are you, my little friend?"

"Twenty, madam."

The scream of dismay which followed and the amusement of the bystanders may be imagined.—Century.

Likes and Dislikes.

Flossie was being urged to get up one cold morning and did not respond quickly to her mother's suggestion of a sponge bath. "You do as you like, mamma," she said. "And let me do as I like. You say to be cold and clean, and I like to be warm and dirty."—New York Times.

THE HENEY TRIAL.

The new evidence in the Heney trial is very damaging to the defendant. The defense, unwittingly, of course, brought out the statement from a witness that he had been paid $400 by Heney to send his son to Canada to prevent him from testifying, and that he (the witness) had been paid $400 more by an officer of the law at Carson to keep out of the way during the first trial of the case. The witness, who seemed to be very candid with no desire to conceal anything that he knew relating to the case, also testified that he offered to go away during the trial if paid for doing so. He is the father of the boy who, it is alleged, brought Heney and some heavy material, which Heney said was ammunition, from Carson to Reno in a private conveyance.

The evidence of H. H. Beck, R. D. Clark and others connected with the Reno Reduction Works, is to the effect that Heney brought the gold to the works to have it melted into bars and stated that it was from a mine near Silver City in which he and others were interested. Heney did not take the stand in his own behalf at the first trial, and, perhaps, he may not do so in the present trial. If he acquired possession of the gold honestly he ought to take the stand and state, when, how and where. His partners would, of course, corroborate his testimony and that would end his connection with the mint shortage. The fact that he has not done this creates the impression in the minds of impartial men, excepting some of the jurors in the first trial, that he is implicated in the mint robbery and that it he did not take the gold which he had made into bars at the Reno Reduction Works from the mint he must necessarily know who did as the gold, according to expert testimony, was finer than any ever found in quartz ledge or placer mine.

A report of the proceedings in the case received late last night shows that Heney was on the stand yesterday in his own behalf and stated that he received the gold which he had melted at the Reno Reduction Works from his brother in California, but he is unable to say where his brother is located at present.

A DEAL WITH THE SILVER MEN.

The report comes from Washington that an arrangement has been made by which the Finance Committee will be placed in control of the friends of silver. Sherman has been superseded as Chairman of the Republican Steering Committee and Aldrich has been dropped altogether from the Committee. Mitchell of Oregon, a silver Republican, has been selected to the place from which Sherman was removed.

It is said that Senator Stewart effected an agreement with the Republicans by which, in consideration of permitting the silver men to have absolute control of the Finance Committee the Populists and silver men will not vote when a resolution to reorganize comes before the Senate. Senator Morrill will be made Chairman of the Finance Committee, but a majority of the committee will be silver men.

The Republicans will vote for reorganization and the Democrats against it, the silver men maintaining strict neutrality. The latter will, however, vote for a Republican President pro tem and a Democratic Sergeant-at-Arms, so that the Republicans will have control of the Senate, except the Finance Committee, which will be strong for free coinage.

A CUBAN SYMPATHIZER.

Mayor Remis of Omaha sympathizes with the Cuban insurgents and does not care who knows it. At a public meeting he announced that he would receive at his office money and provisions for the Cubans and would see that it reached them. Judge Dundy of the United States Court, who may be as strongly in favor of Cuban independence as Mayor Remis, but whose duty it is to uphold the neutrality laws, declared that the Mayor could do nothing of the kind. He might receive money and goods, but the moment he attempted to forward them he would come in contact with the United States Government and find himself in a tight place.

Whether the Mayor purposes opening a depot for goods for the Cubans and will attempt to forward them remains to be seen. The sympathies of the people are certainly with him, but the neutrality laws are against him and the power of the Government is back of the law. His position would be very much like that of the poor man in New York who took a loaf of bread from a baker's window to feed his starving children: the sympathies of the people were with him, but the minions of the law sent him to jail for six months.

THE PRESIDENT and members of the Democratic party in Congress are not on friendly terms. Only the "onlookers" and Republicans call at the White House. Secretary Thurber insists on having every Senator and Representative explain his business before he is admitted to the sacred presence, and as a consequence very few visit the President unless they are compelled to. He has more Republican than Democratic callers and Senators Sherman and Allison and Speaker Reed were among the first to pay their respects when Congress convened.

PRESIDENT HUNTINGTON.

It is Yet Probable That He Will Be Arrested.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 11.—It is said by the Examiner that C. P. Huntington avoided arrest by the United States Marshal by leaving for the East when he did. He was to have been arrested for misdemeanor for violating the provisions of the interstate commerce law.

The proposition to arrest the railroad magnate was the outgrowth of the rate-cutting which has been going on between the Southern Pacific and the steamship lines running between this city and Portland, Or., and the chief accusers are said to have been the officers of the steamship companies, aided by several other prominent transportation people who are antagonistic to Huntington.

Huntington is accused of violating that section of the interstate commerce law which says that a railroad cannot raise or reduce its rates without giving notice to the Interstate Commerce Commission. On steamer days the rate by rail to Portland is $10 first-class, but on days when there are no steamers the rate is $25 first-class.

It is said that the plan to arrest Huntington would have been carried out but for the reluctance of local lawyers to take the case. Finally a Portland lawyer was secured, and he communicated with the authorities at Washington. It is even said that the arrest may yet be made in the East. The penalty for violating the interstate commerce law is a fine not to exceed $5,000, and in case of unlawful discrimination in rates the convicted person will be liable in addition to the fine, to imprisonment not to exceed two years.

CONGRESSIONAL PROCEEDINGS.

Resolutions Introduced in the Senate. WASHINGTON, December 11.—Mitchell introduced a joint resolution in the Senate to-day for the purpose of constructing a statue of Victor Hugo for the Congressional Library.

On motion of Harris, a resolution was passed calling upon the Secretary of War for copies of all papers relating to the railroads seized and operated by the Government from 1861 to 1865, in order to furnish information for the adjustment of Government claims against Tennessee.

Dubois called up his amendment to Senate rules for the distribution of various appropriation bills to the committees especially interested in the subject dealt with.

He made a splendid success of the new Silver Ribbon beer and is a thorough brewmaster. His gang of hands resigned with him, comprising the cellar master, assistant brewer, cooper and three general hands all of whom left for Truckee last evening to inaugurate the new enterprise, beginning with the laying in of a large stock of ice. Mr. Kielhofer will leave for his future place of business next Sunday. His many friends wish him success.

The Kansas City Times, a pronounced gold paper, was continually telling its readers about the prosperity of the country. It owed a little bill of $60,000 to one of its creditors, who concluded to put it in the hands of a receiver. The day it failed, it had an editorial about the wave of prosperity that is sweeping the country. Commenting upon this the Kansas Press says: "We love to see advocates of the gold standard taste the fruits of their system. Whoop'er up for the gold standard."

Ex-President Harrison declines to state whether or not he is to marry Mrs. Dimmock. He will not answer questions nor express himself in any way on the subject. He probably thinks the subject is a private matter which does not concern the public.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions of men and women, and the approval of the medical profession because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

CARSON MINT SHORTAGE.

SECOND TRIAL OF JAMES HENEY

—NINTH DAY.

The Defense Gets in Lively—Langevin Impeached—Heny Under Fire.

(Correspondence of the JOURNAL.)
CARSON, December 11, 1895.
In opening the testimony for the defense Attorney Coffin stated to the jury. We expect to show that so far as the books of the mint are concerned there is no shortage; that the books are absolutely correct and balance all right. That there is a shortage no one disputes and we propose to show that it occurred since May, 1894, through stealage, gold lost from mint wastage and all that sort of thing. The noted spurious Bodie melt, where over $20,000 of the shortage originally is accounted for was made in the mint in the first part of March, 1895.

Heny was in San Francisco when the shortage was discovered and first announced and subsequently went to Los Angeles, where with his wife he attended to a matter of business, giving her a full power of attorney to transact the same. From there he passed to Arizona and on his way to Colorado he learned of the arrest of Jones in the Carson Mint shortage, and being held in $25,000 bail. He learned that he also was accused of being connected with the shortage, and that detectives were hot after him. He knew he could not readily furnish any such exorbitant bail and naturally tried to avoid immediate arrest. He openly communicated with his wife and counsel here in Carson, however, by mail and telegraph, finally negotiating to voluntarily return and stand trial with bonds to be fixed at $10,000. Upon this United States Marshal Humphrey went out and brought him in from Leadville, Colorado, but on his preliminary examination before the U. S. Commission, for some undefined reason his bail was raised to $25,000, which was subsequently reduced to $15,000, which was given and Mr. Heny allowed to go at large.

Neil Maker sworn—Formerly amalgamator at the Mexican mill, Empire, but now running the dynamo electric department; knew Joseph Langevin a number of years; worked in the mill and was discharged two or three times for incompetency and had to leave Empire. His character for truth and veracity is bad in the community; would not believe him under oath. Hank May, foreman, and in fact about all the employees of the mill give him that same reputation; nobody takes his word for anything.

James Wiggins—Resident of Empire; butcher; known Heny for years; testified the same as to the public reputation of Langevin for truth and veracity and emphatically wouldn't believe him under oath; am on friendly terms with him, all the same.

S. E. Patterson—Constable, Carson; known Langevin several years intimately; reputation for truth and veracity decidedly bad. Most people consider him of unsteady mind and would be afraid to accept his oath on anything. Was around the streets last evening after more testimonials of public opinion, and Messrs. Toupin, Rail, Shulze, Hofer, Folsom, Bray and several others all agreed to this same thing, and that he was irresponsible and they would not believe him under oath; heard he concealed himself in the late Heny trial, but don't know it; never paid him or any other man a cent for that kind of business.

Cross-examined by Clarke—Have been in the employ of the defense in this and other mint case since commencement, or since last May. Have received probably $300—no regular salary. Never was employed or paid by Heny, but by Coffin in this particular case; employed to gather up witnesses and evidence from the Comstock, Silver City, and run here and elsewhere. Every man I spoke to last evening said he wouldn't believe Langevin under oath.

Barney Bruie, Policeman—Known Joe Langevin several years in Empire and since. His reputation for truth and veracity is very bad. He is not to be believed under oath or any other way. Never paid or left him any money from anybody in connection with the case.

tailed account of how he came into possession of the gold he brought to the Reno Reduction Works, stating that it was gold dust from his brother, Michael Heny, of Folsom, Cal., some furnished to him on visiting him at Folsom and the rest received at the train in Reno from his brother on his way east.

Colonel Boyle introduced him at Reno to Mr. Beck, manager of the Reduction Works, and witness went on to tell his subsequent billion transactions at the works and through the bank, all of which has been told by Mr. Beck Clark and Eastwood.

The night ride to Reno from Carson in Langevin's buckboard was to meet his brother going east. He took there two little sacks of the gold he received from his brother at Folsom, and still more in the shape of gold and silver amalgam from him at Reno, all of which was treated at the Reduction Works. He was interested with his brother and had a portion of the proceeds, describing how he invested it for mutual benefit in Spring Valley water stock and other securities.

I heard what Langevin had to say in his wild testimony yesterday about my connection with the Catholics, A. P. A., etc., which was all humbug. I do not belong to any church whatever, or political association.

Heard the testimony of Clark, Beck and Eastwood about the Silver City story. The way of it was this: They asked me many times about where I procured such gold, and not liking to tell them it was none of their business, answered them with that story, telling them not to give me away.

Clarke got in strong on cross-examination, but witness stuck strongly to his text with but little variation. He said he paid the Langevin boy $4 for the Reno trip and $200 extorted from him by the old man after his trouble was on.

Colonel E. D. Boyle testified to long and favorable acquaintance with Heny, who had been in his employ at times, also to his brother Michael Heny, who worked for him in Gold Hill for years and whom he had visited at Folsom.

Heny testified that his brother is in Ireland, but does not know what part. Has lost run of him.

For over fifty years Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup has been used by millions of mothers for their children while teething. It is a safe and reliable remedy for all the troubles of teething, such as swollen gums, sore throat, and all the other troubles of the infant.

My lady looks into the mirror And her face it glows with delight, As she sees the vast improvement Since she used Parks' Tea each night. She is never tired or weary, Her ill and her pains have fled; Since she drank of Parks' Tea each evening.

About Parks' Cough Syrup is what we desire. Everyone who tries this remedy says that it has no equal in the cure of all diseases of the throat and lungs. We know it will cure any cold and do it in the shortest possible time. You don't know this, but you will agree with us if you only try one bottle of Parks' Cough Syrup. Sold by S. J. Hodgkinson.

A Private Question Answered Publicly. Every day I am asked the following question: "Mrs. Hunter, tell us honestly, do you think Viavi as good as represented?" Yes, my friends, better! I have handled it over three years and each year my faith has grown stronger. If you want good health use it faithfully and you will not be disappointed. Mrs. B. F. HUNTER.

Whereas my wife, Mattie J. Allen, has left my bed and board without just cause or provocation, this is to notify the public that I will not be responsible for or pay any bills contracted by her from and after this date.

It is extremely doubtful if "Long Tom," ever made any such remark and even if he did he had no occasion for saying anything of the kind, as there has never been a line published in the JOURNAL conveying the idea that "Long Tom" had made any diagnosis of his own case. As usual, the Gazette is in a hole, and in this matter as in all others of public concern, such as the great strike, etc., it wants to get on both sides of every question at issue, and by the slobbering drivell of its editors, plays for two chances to win and loses on both.

Rheumatism 40 Years Helpless, Had to Use Crutches. Hood's Sarsaparilla Cured—No Crutches Now.

Hood's Sarsaparilla has done wonders for me, when doctors and many other remedies had failed to relieve me from the pains of rheumatism. I suffered over 40 years, the last 8 of which, I could not move without crutches or go to bed without assistance, being helpless in my lower limbs. I gladly praise Hood's Sarsaparilla, which brought a great change in a year. I have taken over two dozen. Eight months ago I laid aside my crutches and

She Was the First Star.

Every now and then an anecdote comes to the front showing that our first president liked the theater as well as do his followers of today. The point is mentioned in one of the many theatrical stories narrated in "Shakespeare's Heroines on the Stage." Says the author of the book:

"A Philadelphia Portia of this same season of 1793 comes of a noted family, being none other than Mrs. Eliza Whitlock, the sister of Mrs. Siddons and of the Kembles. In England, at the age of 23, she had made her London debut as the heroine of 'Shylock' on the 23d of February, 1783, and though some what masculine in face and figure, yet displayed so animated a countenance and so graceful a bearing, as to win a moderate degree of favor. A few years after coming to this land she enjoyed the distinction of playing the first 'star' engagement on the American stage, being engaged for $450 and a benefit, to play at the Boston theater in October, 1790. There she repeated her Portia, contending with the remembrance of Mrs. Powell's impersonation of a previous season. She also had the honor of playing before George Washington in Philadelphia."

Eulalia's Pipe.

Perhaps the souvenir which Mr. Hobart C. Chatfield-Taylor values more highly than any other in his large and interesting collection is the pipe which the Infancia Eulalia smoked during her visit to Chicago in 1893. This pipe is of French ivory wood and was made in Paris. Its stem is 7 inches long, including the amber tip, and the bowl is correspondingly large. In the privacy of her apartments, and while yachting on our lake, the princess had this pipe almost constantly between her pearly teeth during her stay in Chicago. She had been accustomed to smoking Cal in tobacco, but in Chicago she became acquainted with the superlative charms of cut plug, and it is understood that she has used none other since.

Mr. Chatfield-Taylor keeps his precious souvenir in a glass case, upon a small velvet cushion. Under it he has the framed letter which the Spanish princess sent him, asking his acceptance of the pipe in memory of many happy hours spent together, but it is not clear whether these happy hours involve the pipe or Mr. Chatfield-Taylor.—Chicago Record.

One Prejudice For Another.

The prejudices of the divine right of parliaments was substituted for the prejudice of the divine right of kings. Now parliaments, in accordance with the laws of collective psychology, like all human assemblages, are liable to sudden and unexpected impulses—impulses such as may at times move a crowd to commit crimes, as was the case in the French revolution, or to practice some generous act, as happened during the Italian risorgimento. That such was possible had been recognized already by Napoleon the Great, the modern Italian positivist school of philosophy had reduced experience to a formula, for when inditing his studies on the convention the emperor wrote, "Collective crimes implicate no one."

A deed or word may change the judgment of all by the contagious emotion of a moment. Thus, besides lowering the intellectual level, our assembly is also liable to sudden mutations of view, yet another danger and yet another reason why the judgments of these huge national talking shops should not be regarded as infallible or be treated with too much deference. John Stuart Mill dimly foresaw this modern positivist conclusion when he pleaded eloquently in favor of safeguarding the rights of the minority.—Blackwood's Magazine.

A Winged General of the Seas.

One of the most extraordinary specimens of the fish family is the namu lagoon, or great general of the south sea, an animal of the whale species, which has its home in the Indian ocean. A full grown namu is upward of 85 feet in length, pure black in color and has eyes as large as a saucer. Besides the above characteristic features, which may be said to be whalelike, with the exception of the eyes, the namu has two immense tusks, which resemble those of the elephant, both in size and color, and two queer winglike membranes extending along its sides from the side fins almost to the tail. The old namu have a curious habit of marshaling the land to do battle with the whales and the sharks, and old mariners say that they maneuver with so much intelligence and sagacity that they are known to all the islanders by names which signify winged generals, winged warriors or winged chiefs of the seas. The National museum at Berlin has a fine mounted specimen of this queer warlike fish.—(St. Louis Republic).

The Crown Prince's Pigeons.

General von Verdy du Vernois tells a pleasant story about the war of 1870. At Villeneuve-le-Roi he was obliged, for want of time, to refuse an invitation to lunch. A brother officer rushed out of the house with a ragoon, which Verdy ate with gusto. A few days later the old Emperor William said to him at dinner: "That is a pretty affair of yours. My son has told me all about it."

"What affair does your majesty refer to?" asked Verdy.

It was this: The crown prince had received the news that two carrier pigeons had been caught, and he had ordered them to be sent to Versailles. On the returning home in the evening he found the following telegram:

"Lieutenant Colonel Verdy has just eaten them."

They had furnished forth the ragoon at Villeneuve-le-Roi.—Realm.

Location of Eden.

We are now informed that the true location of the garden of Eden is in the interior of Africa, somewhere near the sources of the Nile. We are told that all the "conditions" favor this location. It is a fact that the friends of other locations are equally sanguine. For instance, President Warren of Boston university wrote a volume to prove that the true location of Eden was at the north pole. It will be noted that we have no mention of Eden anywhere in the Bible after the first chapter of Genesis.—Hartford Religious Herald.

Our Forester.

Professor Runnebaum of Berlin, sent by the German government to examine the timber resources of our Pacific coast, expresses amazement at the waste he witnessed there. He says the end of American forests is near at hand unless they are protected by law against reckless cutting and confiscations. While the leading countries of Europe are trying to make trees grow the Americans are sweeping away not only the mature trees, but the saplings, which are the rightful heritage of future generations. "If nothing is done by your government," in his opinion, "you may live to see lumber shipped from Germany to Puget sound." When the professor was in Oregon and Washington, the whole coast was darkened with smoke from fires devouring enormous tracts of timber unsurpassed in the world. His remark that the life of the forests is the life of the people is no flourish of rhetoric. It is a verified law of nature, but trifled with or ignored as yet in America.—New Orleans Picayune.

About Lightning Strokes.

Certain facts about lightning strokes, the result of years of experiment by the United States weather bureau, have recently been tabulated. Thunderstorms reach their maximum in June and July, though reported in every month except January, the region of winter thunderstorms centering about Louisiana. Forty such storms are the maximum average for any such section. The average loss of life from lightning in the United States is 24 persons; the property, over $1,500,000. People living in cities and thickly built towns run little danger, the risk in the country or suburbs being five times as great. For the same reason the center of a grove or forest is much safer than its edges or isolated trees, the dense growth acting to distribute the current.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

A Wayside Philologist.

The crusty janitor motioned them away. "Don't you see that sign?" he said, pointing to the framed inscription, "Loners Not Allowed on the Premises."

"If you think we're loafers because we're trying to get some bread and butter, with a little apple sass on it," replied Mossie Wiggins, pulling up his greasy coat collar with a lofty air, "you don't understand the deprivation of the word. We're sloons."

With a parting look of scorn he strode away, followed by Taffold Knatt.—Exchange.

A Brace of Reasons.

"Why didn't you call it a theater instead of an opera house?" asked the visiting gentleman.

"Well," said the eminent citizen of the little town as he gazed with pride at the local amusement hall, "opera house sounds bigger and doesn't sound so wicked."—Indianapolis Journal.

Incorrect.

"One trouble with you is that you are continually quarreling with Lindsey Murray."

"That's where you don't know nothing. I never heard of the gent."—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

A Queer Mania.

A short time ago a lady in Paris became violently insane on the street and was sent to an asylum. Her apartments in the Rue Rambuteau—fine ones, for which she paid an annual rent of 2,300 francs—were then visited. An intolerable stench pervaded them. The dejected woman had completely "timed" them with empty sardine boxes, which emitted the peculiar perfume. There were four cartfuls of these odorous boxes.
